State unemployment nears 1 million

Combined News Services

California's unemployment rate soared to 10.6 per cent in May with nearly one million persons out of work, state officials said Friday.

But 75,900 persons also found new jobs in May, despite the overall increase in unemployment, the state Employment Development Department said.

A total of 954,200 Californians were out of work in May, up 4,400 from the number of jobless in April, when the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 10 per cent.

The adjusted national unemployment rate rose from 8.9 per cent to 9.2 per cent in May.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the number of unemployed rose 362,000 in May to a total of 8,538,000—9.2 per cent of the labor force compared to 8.9 per cent in April.

It was the first time the national rate exceeded 9 per cent since the final Depression year of 1941 when the 12-month average was 9.9 per cent.

But the total number of employed rose for the second straight month in May. The report said 84,402,000 persons had jobs, up 316,000 from April.

Julius Shiskin, commissioner of labor statistics, said the grim figures overshadowed other new signs suggesting "the recession has reached bottom and possible recovery has started."

For example, he said, more than half of 172 industries surveyed reported they employed more people in May than in April—the first such increase since August 1974.

Shiskin also said the number who work part-time because they cannot find full-time work declined for the third straight month.

"It should be recognized that when a recession has reached bottom during the early stages of recovery, the economy is still operating at a relatively depressed level," he told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

A total of 8,509,900 Californians were employed in May, up 75,900 from April, but still more than 81,000 below the May, 1974, level. Nationally, total employment also rose despite the increased joblessness.

Employment in agriculture increased by 47,400 jobs, an expected seasonal rise, the department said.

The physicians' work stoppage to protest soaring medical malpractice insurance rates helped push up the jobless rate, the agency said. The services employment category showed a drop of 2,200 persons, mainly due to layoffs of hospital personnel, officials said.

California's unemployment rate was the highest since records have been kept, the department said, but that only covers the period since the early 1950s.

Although the newspaper gave the impression the PRG is in charge, Western observers in Saigon agree that the rebuilding of South Vietnamese society is being directed by Hanoi.

The military management committee formed to run Saigon after the former government surrendered April 30 is stacked with political and economic experts from Hanoi.

Ford had hoped to assure the nation, as he noted in accepting the report of Rockefeller's blue ribbon commission Friday morning, that the intelligence community would operate "within the law."

CIA report delay fuels disbelief

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

WASHINGTON — The decision Friday by President Ford to delay indefinitely the publication of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's report on activities of the Central Intelligence Agency raised the possibility that the outcome of the five-month-long White House inquiry would be the opposite of what had been intended.

Ford had hoped to assure the nation, as he noted in accepting the report of Rockefeller's blue ribbon commission Friday morning, that the intelligence community would operate "within the law."

The transmittal ceremony in the President's Oval Office occurred amid reports that the White House had ordered Rockefeller to delete from his commission's findings a long section dealing with charges of CIA involvement in plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

Rockefeller insisted that the subject never was meant to be included in the commission's formal published findings. Ron Nessen, the White House press secretary, strenuously denied that Ford or his aides were involved in shaping the commission's report. But their statements appeared to conflict with earlier ones.

Spokesmen for the White House and the commission kept referring questions to one another.

and neither gave a satisfactory explanation for the abandonment of the commission's plans to make the report public this weekend.

The situation produced the most acrimonious White House news briefing since Ford became President last August. Some newsmen questioned Nessen about a possible "cover-up" attempt. One newsmen called the presidential spokesman a liar. Nessen, unable to divert the focus of his daily briefing to other subjects, eventually stalked angrily from the White House briefing room.

At issue were seeming inconsistencies or, at best, uncertainties involved in the culmination of the Rockefeller Commission's inquiry.

Rockefeller told Ford, in a conversation meant to be overheard by White House correspondents, that the commission had omitted any reference to the alleged assassination plots because "we did not have time" to complete a review of them.

Yet Ford had already extended the life of the commission from three months to five after the

Fellow Solzhenitsyn

STANFORD (AP) — Nobel Prize-winning novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn became an honorary fellow of the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace at the Stanford University campus Friday.

The exiled Soviet author spent a week here, researching a new book about the Russian revolution of 1917. The institution owns a well-known collection of documents dealing with Russian secret police.

"The documentation I have examined at the Hoover Institution is outstanding and, in many respects, unique," Solzhenitsyn said.

"Materials dated prior to 1922 are especially well represented here. It is the kind of original source material that the Soviets, either destroyed or refuse to make available."

Britain votes to stay in Common Market

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson won a landslide "Yes" endorsement Friday for his bid to keep crisis-ridden Britain inside the prosperous nine-nation European Common Market. He hailed the referendum victory as a "historic decision."

The final tally in Britain's first national referendum gave supporters of continued British membership in the Common Market a margin of 67.2 per cent against 32.8, better than 2 to 1.

Official figures put the overall count at 17,378,581 to 8,470,073 votes.

"It was a historic decision made by the British people in clear and unmistakable terms," Wilson said.

"The verdict has been given by a vote and by a majority bigger than that achieved by any government in any election in the history of our democracy," he said.

Reading his statement from the steps of 10 Downing St., Wilson said: "No one in Britain, Europe or the wider world should have any doubt about the meaning."

"It means that 14 years of national argument are over," he said. "It means that all those who had reservations about Britain's commitment should now join wholeheartedly without stint in the task of overcoming the economic problems that assail us as a nation and work wholeheartedly with our partners in Europe and our friends everywhere to meet the challenges confronting the whole world."

Fishing limit

WASHINGTON — Two U.S. senators called Friday for unilateral action to extend American protection over fish stocks in the oceans 200 miles offshore. Sens. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., told a Senate commerce subcommittee that without action the fish stocks may soon be wiped out by the overfishing of mechanized foreign fleets. The Senate passed similar legislation last session by a 2-1 margin, but the House delayed action pending the outcome of the Law of the Sea conference, sponsored by the United Nations. Packwood said U.S. fishermen are at severe disadvantage because they must comply with state laws governing catches landed in the U.S. while foreign fishermen who do not land their catches may fish with no restrictions at all.

Eden Roc closes

MIAMI BEACH — The posh Eden Roc Hotel, which thrived for years in the shadow of the Fountainbleau, closed its carved glass doors Thursday night. It was the victim of monumental debts and sagging tourism. A federal bankruptcy referee in New York disclosed the hotel did not have enough money to meet its payroll and ordered receiver Herbert Freiling to close the Eden Roc. General Manager Lenore Toby said most of the hotel's 150 employees didn't learn they had lost their jobs until Thursday night, when the hotel's closing was announced on local television. Only 49 of the hotel's 350 rooms were occupied when everyone was ordered to leave Thursday night.

Weak support

WASHINGTON — Only 16 out of 38 Senate Republicans have signed a survey declaring their support for President Ford's planned bid for the 1976 GOP nomination, it was learned Friday. The poll, or pledge of support, was being circulated by Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott. Typed out above a list of all GOP senators is the brief declaration, "I support the election of President Ford in 1976." Stevens told UPI the poll was still being circulated and that he got the idea of making the survey following a White House meeting of Ford's campaign strategists. But a Senate source said he understood "the list has already made the rounds" and that "only 16 have signed so far."

INTERNATIONAL*Portugal crisis defused*Guerrillas kill 3

LISBON — In a move that appeared to avert the breakup of Portugal's provisional coalition government, the ruling military authorities said Friday night that a Socialist newspaper closed under Communist pressure could start publishing again. The Socialist Party leadership, which has threatened to resign from the coalition cabinet unless the newspaper Republlica was reopened, was in emergency session early today to weigh the decision of the military's Revolutionary Council. Working under an ultimatum by the Socialists to settle the dispute this week, the council said that Republlica could resume business under the editorial control of Socialist Party officials whom Communist printers tried to bust. But the council also said there was no question of fining the rebellious printers or moving them to another newspaper as the publishers had demanded. The Socialists feared that leaving the insurgent printers in place could lead to another crisis at the paper.

New tax ordered

MOSCOW — In a move aimed apparently at applying pressure on dissident Jews, the Soviet Union has quietly announced plans to levy new taxes on money sent to Soviet citizens from abroad. The new taxes, which were not described in detail, will be imposed in addition to government bank charges that already claim more than a third of all funds sent from abroad.

SAN SALVADOR — Mexico and five Central American coffee producers on Friday urged the formation of a coffee exporters' cartel to boost coffee prices by regulating exports. People in the news*Krogh disbarred by home state court

Combined News Services

Former White House plumbers chief Egil Krogh Jr. was disbarred by the Washington State Supreme Court Friday for his role in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

In a 7-2 finding, the court agreed with the recommendation of the State Bar Association that Krogh should be barred from practicing law in Washington State.

Krogh had thrown himself on the mercy of the court, conceding that he deserved punishment but asking for a suspension instead of outright disbarment.

The court said it could not excuse Krogh's behavior as that of a person "overawed by the power and prestige of his superiors" or as the acts of a man who was ignorant of what he was doing.

"We cannot accept the assumption that attorneys, who have been schooled in the Constitution of the United States and of the state, and who have dedicated themselves to the concept of the rule of law, can ordinarily be expected to abandon the principles which they have sworn to uphold, when asked to do so by a person who holds a constitutional office," said Justice Hugh J. Roselli for the majority.

The court cited Krogh's conviction in U.S. District Court earlier last year on a single charge of conspiracy against the rights of citizens in connection with the burglary of the offices of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the psychiatrist of Daniel Ellsberg.

Krogh assumed the role of leader of the White House "plumbers" unit appointed by another Washington State native, top presidential adviser John Ehrlichman, to stop what the Nixon administration considered security leaks.

Krogh was admitted to the state bar in 1968 and went to work for Ehrlichman's Seattle law firm for three months before taking the White House job.

He now is an aide to California Republican Rep. Pete McCloskey.

Insurance commissioner rejects malpractice pool

Associated Press

California's insurance commissioner said Friday that he would not set up the medical malpractice insurance pool sought by striking physicians.

"I can find no reason for us to activate the Joint Underwriting Association in any of the eight counties we are considering today," Commissioner Wesley Kinder told a public hearing on the pool.

Kinder said the pool could be reconsidered at a later date if the situation changed in the area.

Dr. Seymour Wallace, president of the California Society of Anesthesiologists, said he thought doctors would stay on the job despite withdrawal of plans for an insurance pool.

"The Joint Underwriting Association is just a short-range solution, and we will not let that upset us too much as long as we have insurance available in the interim," Wallace said.

"We want long-range reforms. We'll stay on the job and give the Legislature a chance to act in good faith."

Kinder said most of the doctors in Northern California, who ended their strike protest against soaring rates this week, already had purchased interim insurance, despite the high premiums.

HE SAID there are 3,370 doctors in the eight counties and only about 8 percent are unaccounted for in terms of purchasing malpractice insurance.

Wallace said most doctors have purchased insurance on a three-month basis, paying rates which represented hikes of more than 30 percent.

He said doctors were willing to "bite the bullet" for three months, but most would not renew their insurance without lasting legislative relief.

Gov. Brown signed emergency legislation May 23 to allow Kinder to set up an insurance pool which doctors hoped would provide relief from skyrocketing malpractice insurance rates for the rest of this year.

Spokesmen for anesthesiologists said then they would go back to work on the condition the pool would be set up. Their walkout closed scores of hospitals to all but emergency cases.

THE pool would have covered 3,370 doctors in Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco, Shasta, Siskiyou, Solano and Trinity counties.

Meanwhile, doctors from seven counties in the New York City area have agreed to continue their slowdown over malpractice insurance, a spokesman said.

Dr. Bernard Jacobs, chairman of the orthopedic section of the New York State Medical Society, told a news conference the group of about 300 doctors found Gov. Hugh Carey's proposal for ending the slowdown unsatisfactory.

Carey told society representatives at a meeting in Albany on Wednesday he would soon appoint a panel to study the malpractice situation and make recommendations for changes in the new state law in the next legislature.

Jacobs said the same group of doctors would meet today and come up with proposals to take back to Carey. He said he was optimistic the slowdown, which has cut occupancy at a number of hospitals in the New York City area, could be ended within days or weeks.

HE SAID at the top of the list of the doctors' demands was a definition of malpractice. They also want assurances on the makeup of the panel. Carey said he would appoint, including representation of high-risk specialties like orthopedics and neurosurgery.

The American Medical Association says there are no typical figures for malpractice insurance premiums because they vary widely from state to state and from specialty to specialty.

According to recent surveys, in Michigan a general practitioner may pay $1,471, a urologist $6,001, a neurosurgeon $12,002 for malpractice insurance. In Tennessee, a general practitioner may pay $383, a urologist $1,564, a neurosurgeon $3,128.

In Ohio, the Akron General Medical Center announced it would raise room rates by $1.50 per day effective Monday because of malpractice insurance costs. Akron City Hospital announced earlier it was increasing its rates by $3 per day.

AKRON General officials said the additional room fee was necessary to build up a $3 million reserve fund as self-insurance protection to cover malpractice claims of less than $500,000.

Royal Globe Insurance Co. refused to renew the hospital's malpractice policy that expired Friday, the officials said.

They also said that because of the increased risk of malpractice suits, the hospital must carry $13 million worth of insurance instead of the $5 million it had carried. The center was able to obtain $10 million worth of insurance to cover claims greater than $500,000, but the annual cost was $936,000, compared with $120,000 for the $5 million previously carried.

Current Akron General room rates range from $68 to $76 per day.

City Hospital's previous range of daily room charges was $67.50 to $80.

CITY Hospital officials said the increase was necessary because the hospital's malpractice premium increased to $624,000 per year from the previous $87,400.

A measure to assure that Iowa doctors and hospitals can get medical malpractice insurance was approved 44 to 1 by the state Senate Thursday.

The bill returns to the House for action on amendments.

Deduction

Do all workers have Social Security contributions deducted from their pay checks? B.H.R., Long Beach.

Railroad workers, federal employees and some city, county and state employees are exempt from Social Security contributions because they pay into their own government retirement programs. All private employees are subject to the payroll deductions even if they contribute to a company pension plan.

Babysitters, housekeepers and other domestics are not required to pay Social Security contributions unless they earn at least $50 per quarter from the same employer. All other self-employed individuals, however, must pay the contributions. The Social Security tax rate currently is 5.85 percent for employees, matched by their employers, and 7.9 percent for the self-employed. The tax is levied on the first $14,100 of a wage earner's annual income.

Signals picked up off Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Air Force pilots three weeks ago picked up radio signals from the vicinity of Tang Island off Cambodia, the Pentagon said Friday.

But a spokesman said that "from all the evidence available, there is no evidence that any Marines are left alive on Koh Tang," where three Marines still are officially listed as missing from the Mayaguez rescue operation.

The Pentagon spokesman said the signals monitored by the U.S. pilots included radio "beeper" signals, foreign-language voice transmissions and repetitions of their aircraft call letters in English.

He did not characterize the signals as distress messages.

The Boston Globe earlier quoted Defense and State Department sources as saying the signals came from a military survival radio similar to those carried by U.S. helicopter crews.

However, the Pentagon spokesman said later that the Marines did not have survival radios.

"The only radio that might have been left (when U.S. forces flew out) was an Air Force helicopter crewman's, and his body was left."

"It should be noted that the Cambodian armed forces were provided with a stock of survival radios prior to their surrender to the Communist forces," he added.

Marines assaulted the island about 30 miles off the Cambodian coast May 14-15 to retrieve the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez, and its crew.

The missing Marines were part of a machine-gunner crew guarding the edge of a landing zone for helicopters bringing out the troops after the mission.

The Globe quoted an official as saying the presumption is they were killed trying to get out themselves.

The Pentagon said Friday that on May 16, the next day, the pilots of an Air Force C-130 "flying over international waters in the Gulf of Thailand received beeper signals which were believed to come from the immediate area of the island."

The 5- to 10-second transmissions over a half-hour period began with "intermediate-strength" beepers, followed by a "weak voice" in English repeating the plane's call letters, "King-21," two or three times. Then came a long transmission in a foreign language, "presumably Cambodian," the spokesman said.

The call letters would have to be heard first by someone on the ground for them to then repeat them, the spokesman said.

The C-130 crew was unable to identify the sender or communicate with him, the spokesman said.

A Navy P-3 patrol aircraft "in the general area" was sent in to relieve the C-130 and monitor any further signals, but picked up only one brief "possible transmission."

"A break in the static was all" picked up by the P-3, the spokesman said.

Four days later, two other Air Force planes at different times picked up beepers for only a few seconds, the spokesman said, but were not sure where the signals originated.

The spokesman declined to comment on "possible contingency planning."

Women gain new step on academies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women seeking to attend the nation's military academies marched another step forward Friday as the Senate joined the House in approving their admission.

Sen. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, principal sponsor of the Senate measure, said he did not see the action as a prelude to sending women into combat.

The approval came in an amendment to a $30.3 billion military procurement bill. A similar amendment had previously passed the House 303 to 96.

THE AMENDMENT requires that women be admitted to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. If it clears conference committee and is signed by President Ford it would be effective with classes starting in July 1976.

Several women have been nominated to the academies in the past by members of Congress, but they have been denied admission.

Women are admitted to the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y., congressional sponsors pointed out. A congressional spokesman said the Coast Guard Academy was not included in the measure approved Friday.

because it is under the jurisdiction of the Transportation Department and could not be included in a Defense Department bill.

DEFENSE Department officials said they felt it would be inappropriate to make any comment until differences between the House and Senate versions of the measure have been worked out.

Maj. F. William Smullen at West Point said the academy would have no official comment until the action becomes final one way or the other.

Commander Robert Louis at the Naval Academy superintendant, said, "if it is the will of the American people that females attend service academies, the Air Force Academy will comply."

women." He added that the academy "would have to review our curriculum because the law precludes women from serving aboard combat ships and aircraft. In the interest of efficiency we have to have a two-track curriculum. One for male combatants and one for female non-combatants, unless Congress resolves this dilemma."

"IN THE PAST," he added, "the midshipmen have indicated informally that they would prefer not to have women here."

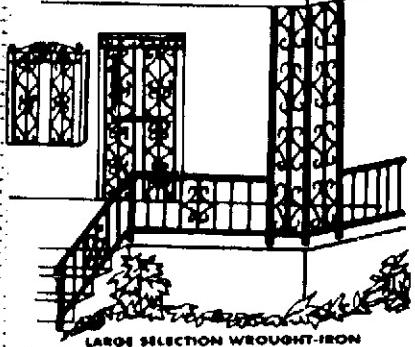

Lt. Gen. James R. Allen, Air Force Academy superintendant, said, "if it is the will of the American people that females attend service academies, the Air Force Academy will comply."

"to ensure against the indiscriminate use of fire-power ... to avoid civilian casualties, minimize the destruction of private property, and conserve diminishing resources."

One rule said Americans could fire on suspected enemy targets near inhabited areas only after warning civilians to leave.

"I pray that if we ever have to go to war again — and I pray that we never will — such foolish restrictions will never be formed again and applied to our troops," said Goldwater, a retired Air Force major general.

Burns tied to IRS plot

By EILEEN SHANAHAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A Congressional staff report issued Friday said that it was Arthur F. Burns, now chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who passed on to the Internal Revenue Service President Nixon's order that the tax agency make special investigations of student protesters, black militants and anyone who was financing them.

The order went to IRS through Burns on June 16, 1969, while Burns was counselor to the President, according to a report by the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation.

The joint committee staff has been investigating the use of the IRS to impede the activities of individuals and groups regarded as "extremist." A group called the Special Services Staff was organized for this purpose during the Nixon and Kennedy Administrations. It ultimately collected files on 8,585 individuals and 2,873 organizations.

IN ITS final report, issued Friday, the staff also disclosed its discovery that President John F. Kennedy and his brother, Robert, then the attorney general, had been directly involved in earlier, less extensive programs of IRS concentration on "ideological organizations."

These involved reviews of the activities of about 50 organizations, a large majority of which were right-wing.

For example, Randolph W. Thrower, who was IRS commissioner in 1969, has previously contended that the special investigative unit aimed at activist organizations was created at the suggestion of the Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

A memorandum to the files written by Thrower himself, and reprinted in the joint committee staff report, showed that Nixon's request to the agency, transmitted by Burns, predated a hearing by the Senate investigations subcommittee, at which questions were raised about whether IRS was doing all it could to police tax-evasion by activist organizations and individuals.

Burns told the joint tax committee investigators, and repeated in answer to inquiries Friday, that he had no recollection of the discussion with Thrower.

There is evidence in addition to Thrower's memorandum, supporting the assertion that the two men met on the date mentioned in the memorandum and that the subject was activist and extremist organizations.

Probe opened by U.S. of missing secret FBI files

By JOHN CREWDSON

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is looking into the possibility that letters and documents removed from the office of J. Edgar Hoover immediately after his death in 1972 contained sensitive information on public figures or otherwise bore on the FBI's operations, according to a spokesman for the agency.

The existence of "secret" files maintained by the late director of the FBI long rumored in Washington, was confirmed for the first time last February by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi.

TESTIFYING before a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee, Levi reported that 164 file jackets, marked "OC," for "Official and Confidential," some of which contained derogatory information on presidents, members of Congress and others, were taken from Hoover's office to that of W. Mark Felt, then the associate director, shortly after Hoover's death on May 2, 1972.

At the same hearing, however, Clarence Kelley, the current FBI director, testified that the OC files subsequently recovered by the Justice Department had not been the only documents dispersed from the director's office after Hoover's death.

There were "some files," Kelley said, "which were not transferred and which were destroyed prior to the move to the associate director's office."

OTHERS WERE "taken out to his home and placed in his home, they being historical, I presume, to some extent," Kelley added. "There is no indication that they were other than personal files."

It is these documents, the Justice Department spokesman said, in which the department is "interested."

An FBI spokesman said this week that Kelley had based his remarks on assurances by Hoover associates that the documents removed to Hoover's home in Washington had included only his personal effects and nothing of any official significance to the bureau.

The Justice Department spokesman said, however, that his agency was nonetheless "taking steps to find out what, if any, files were removed" along with the letters and other papers.

He would not say precisely what form the investigation had taken, or whether the whereabouts of the papers, or even their existence, had been positively established.

Shortly after Hoover's death, Clyde Tolson, Hoover's long-time personal associate and the bureau's No. 2 official, moved into the late director's home. Tolson died last April.

Several past and present FBI officials said they understood that Tolson, J.P. Mohr, another Hoover associate, and various bureau secretaries, including Helen Gandy, Hoover's personal assistant for many years, spent "weeks" in the house going through the materials that had been removed.

One former FBI official said that, upon hearing of Hoover's death, Tolson called Richard Kleindienst, then the attorney general, and asked him to order Hoover's office "sealed off."

EXCLUSIVE

N.Y. TIMES SERVICE

The office was closed, the man recalled, and L. Patrick Gray, who had taken over as acting director of the bureau, gave Hoover's aides a week to clear out his personal effects.

In addition, these officials said, Miss Gandy has begun, about a year before Hoover's death and on his instructions, to purge the files that were then in his office. Some files, the officials said, were destroyed during that period.

Tolson, to whom Hoover left an estate valued at more than $500,000 — including the $100,000 house to which the papers were taken — was the executor of the late director's will, and thus retained control over all of his "personal" belongings.

There are no indications that the documents — if they indeed remained in existence — left the Hoover house before Tolson died in April. The nominated executor of Tolson's will, to whom Tolson reportedly left about $25,000, is Mohr, who is now retired from the FBI.

A second former FBI official asserted it was Mohr who had originally "engineered" the transfer of documents from FBI headquarters to Hoover's house. He suggested that, in his capacity as nominated executor of Tolson's estate, Mohr might have knowledge of their current whereabouts.

Mohr, however, dismissed the suggestion and said he had no knowledge of any documents having been removed to Hoover's house upon his death or from the house upon Tolson's death.

Art panel urged by governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Brown Friday proposed legislation to eliminate the state Arts Commission and replace it with a new seven-member board consisting entirely of artists.

The governor said his plan would be amended into a bill by Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles. The measure would carry an appropriation of $700,000 and take effect next Jan. 1.

Brown, in effect, abolished the 17-member state Arts Commission by refusing to appropriate funds for it in his proposed state budget. Instead, he called for creation of an Arts Development Council and proposed a $1 million appropriation for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But budget-writers in both the Assembly and Senate eliminated the appropriation for the council and instead decided to continue the Arts Commission in existence for the next year at a drastically reduced scale.

Under the governor's bill, the council members would have to be artists.

Senate clears move to jail more rapists

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The all-male Senate Friday unanimously passed legislation designed to put more rapists behind bars by eliminating controversial jury instructions in rape cases and by requiring mandatory sentences for repeat offenders.

The measure (SB574), supported by the National Organization for Women and other women's activist groups, was passed 28-0 and sent to an uncertain future in the Assembly.

The author, Sen. Alan Robbins, D-North Hollywood, called it "the second step in the Legislature's reform of rape laws."

There was no debate or discussion of the measure.

Under the bill, judges could no longer warn a jury to use extra caution when considering testimony from the woman who is charging rape.

Presently, judges' manuals specify that rape, usually a crime with no witnesses, is easily charged and difficult to defend against so the law requires the jury to examine the testimony of the victim with more caution than it would ordinarily use."

Robbins argued the trauma of a trial makes rape a difficult crime for a woman to charge, and said the so-called cautionary statement, "is the final knife in the back of the rape victim by telling the jury that, in fact, the victim is a liar."

The bill also eliminates the discretion of a judge to grant probation to rapists convicted more than once.

Robbins predicted a difficult fight in the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee, which has previously rejected efforts to delete the discretion of a judge or blanket attempts to wipe out the cautionary statement in rape cases.

The Assembly currently is deliberating a compromise attempt to substitute a general cautionary statement in all trials where there is no corroborating testimony from witnesses.

The "first step" toward rape reform occurred last year with enactment of a Robbins bill which strictly limited the instances when a rape victim could be questioned in open court about her sex life.

In Assembly

Proposed budget defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Republicans, who belatedly insisted on $100 million in spending cuts, Friday defeated an expanded $11.6 billion version of Gov. Brown's first proposed state budget.

After a partisan debate, the budget bill was scuttled on a 53-24 vote which split along party lines. The measure needed at least 54 votes for passage.

However, Democrats, terming the Republican action harassment by a "desperate" minority party, announced the budget bill would be reconsidered later, but set no firm date to do so. The state Constitution requires the budget to be passed by June 15.

The Democrats' 54th vote, Assemblyman Curtis Tucker of Inglewood, is recuperating from heart surgery and was absent. While other Republicans voted "no," veteran GOP fiscal expert Frank Lanterman of La Canada abstained.

Following four months of bipartisan planning, Assembly Republicans a week ago proposed $100 million in budget cuts, reducing renters tax credits by $61 million and driver education programs by $25 million, among other things. Talks by Democrats and Republicans failed to reach an agreement.

Democratic Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy said Republicans were not sincerely trying to negotiate budget reductions but only trying "to make noise, to attack, to harass, to obstruct."

"We ought not to engage in fiscal malpractice," said Assembly Republican Leader Robert Beverly of Manhattan Beach, warning a tax increase next year might be necessary if the budget was not cut.

However, Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, chairman of the budget-writing Ways and Means Committee, said the spending blueprint by Assembly Democrats would leave a "net prudent surplus of $234 million" at the end of June 1976.

Foran charged that the GOP wanted to "amputate an arm, leg or a head" from the budget and asserted if Democrats "are dealing in fiscal malpractice, I suggest the Republican party is dealing in legislative and political malpractice."

The budget bill by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was passed by the Senate Monday on a 33-1 vote in less than 10 minutes.

lion surplus, which he said was too small for a state as large as California.

McCarthy said Republicans advanced "horrible proposals" for spending cuts and then backed away from them. He asserted the Republicans then told Democrats they should find ways to reduce the budget to $11.5 billion on their own.

Assembly GOP Chairman Frank Murphy, Jr. of Santa Cruz accused McCarthy of "twisting the facts."

Murphy insisted Republicans seriously wanted the budget reduced because, "We are not going to have the bucks to pay for the ambitious things that are in it."

Schrade fights to keep TV crews out of Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Sen. Jack Schrade, stirring a flap over bright lights and neckties, announced Friday he would challenge any further efforts by television newsmen to film debate on the Senate floor.

The San Diego Republican became angry as a television news crew began setting up equipment on the floor without permission, which is traditionally required before cameras are allowed in the Senate. He also complained that at least one member of the three-man crew was without a necktie and coat.

The Capitol news crew of KNBC in Los Angeles was preparing to cover action on legislation dealing with rape trials and prison sentences of rapists.

Democratic floor leader George Moscone, D-San Francisco, explained to the Senate he was going to ask for permission for the debate to be filmed and he said that is what the news team was assuming.

"That's been the trouble with the press around here lately, they assume too much," grumped Schrade, who often objects to broadcast news coverage of Senate floor and committee sessions.

The crew wheeled the equipment out of the chamber. The cameraman borrowed a tie and put on a coat and the crew was allowed back on the floor in time for debate on the bill only to run afoul of Schrade once more.

Passage of the measure took only moments and there was no debate.

Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, rose to ask if there was any further need for the "offensive" television lights to remain on.

The crew was still filming, which brought Schrade to his feet to accuse the team of rudeness and announce he would object from now on to television cameras on the floor.

Senate tradition prohibits cameras of any kind on the floor unless permission is sought and no senator protests.

Chace aide tells court of fatal accident

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

The chauffeur of Supervisor Burton Chace relived the last moments before the head-on freeway crash which claimed Chace's life nearly three years ago.

Foreman D. Foreman, the Chace aide who was driving the supervisor's county-owned Cadillac on the morning of the wreck, reviewed events of Aug. 22, 1972, from the witness stand in the civil trial over responsibility for the accident.

Listening in the Norwalk Superior Court gallery—until his apparently wracked nerves could take no more—was Guy Caputo, the man who was driving the seven-ton truck which collided with Chace's car on the Long Beach Freeway.

The trial—actually a tangle of lawsuits stemming from the wreck—will enter its third week Monday.

Foreman, under questioning by the battery of attorneys on the case, said it was his habit to keep the county car at his home during the week. He would pick Chace up and drive him to and from the downtown county Hall of Administration.

"But on weekends, he said, Chace usually kept the car after dropping the aide off at his North Long Beach home. Just three miles separated the houses of Chace and Foreman."

Aug. 22, 1972, was a Monday, Foreman recalled, and it was Chace who had the car. The supervisor worked late at his home that morning. It was not until 10:40 a.m. that the big Cadillac pulled up in front of Foreman's house, at 271 E. Adams.

The aide recalled that he kissed his wife, then climbed in behind the wheel as Chace slid across the seat. Both men buckled their seatbelts, Foreman said.

One of the allegations in the lawsuit brought by Chace's relatives is that, in the grinding moment of impact, Chace's seatbelt held fast—but the seat tore loose from its mounts, crushing him against the straining belt.

Agencies feud over smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bitter, long-running feud between the federal Drug Enforcement Administration and the U.S. Customs Service has erupted anew in a dispute over the quantity of narcotics being smuggled into the United States by air.

Customs officials, whose agency has the primary task of intercepting airborne drug traffickers, reacted angrily to the published assertion by a DEA official that as many as 150 planeloads of marijuana are reaching the United States daily.

"We have no evidence of the problem being of that magnitude. We have never been informed that it has reached those proportions," a Customs spokesman said.

PRIVATELY, Customs officials were said to be seething over the 150-planeloads-a-day claim by Jacques Kiere, director of the DEA-affiliated El Paso Intelligence Center, known as EPIC.

Kiere cited the figure in an Associated Press interview on the use of aircraft to smuggle narcotics into the U.S. from Mexico and the Caribbean. In recent weeks two World War II vintage planes, each carrying a ton of marijuana, have crashed in the southern U.S.

"If you accept Kiere's figure it means there are more than $4,000 plane-loads of marijuana coming into the United States in a year," said one Customs official. "If they have any such intelligence they certainly should not withhold it from us."

A DEA spokesman said Customs has been offered information collected by EPIC, which is jointly funded and operated by DEA and the Immigration and Naturalization Service, both Justice Department agencies.

"As a matter of fact the Customs Service was invited to be a part of EPIC when it was set up last year but they refused to join," he said.

Customs officials have objected to the existence of EPIC, charging it duplicates work of other agencies and is an attempt by DEA to exceed its assigned role of intelligence-gathering and investigation.

Some Customs officials also contend the DEA claim was an attempt to improve DEA's reputation, recently torn by allegations of mismanagement and corruption. Last week, the DEA administrator, John R. Bartels Jr., was fired.

THE TWO agencies have been feuding, sometimes openly, for more than a year over jurisdictions in the government drive to stem the flow of marijuana and hard drugs across U.S. borders. The dispute started with the 1973 reorganization of the drug enforcement system which created DEA, and intensified a year ago when the Nixon administration stripped Customs of much of its drug enforcement role along the frontiers.

GALLO WANTS YOU TO BE THE JUDGE

California has enacted legislation guaranteeing farm workers legally binding, secret ballot elections under government supervision.

Enactment of this historic legislation came as a result of the efforts of California's Governor Brown, ourselves and all interested parties. It is in total accord with the resolutions passed by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and other religious groups calling for a legislative solution to the farm labor problem.

The United Farm Workers Union's reaction to the passage of this law was to immediately announce the intensification of their boycotting efforts.

Continuation of the boycott by the UFW shows contempt for the law which guarantees Farm Workers the right to vote free of outside pressures and also shows disrespect for the democratic process by which it was passed.

You must ask yourself why the UFW continues to boycott now that there is legislation guaranteeing Farm Workers their inherent rights.

VOTE COUNTERS in British referendum on European Common Market tabulate results at Earl's Court, London Friday morning. People on inside of tables were identified as "scrutineers."

BRITISH STAY IN

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, chairman of the pro-Market referendum campaign, said: "This is a massive and heartening majority. For those of us who have worked to stay in the European Community it is not only a day of satisfaction but one of jubilation."

Neil Marten, chairman of the anti-Market campaign committee, said: "I think we have got to accept that this is the wish of the British people at this particular period of time."

The overwhelming "Yes" majority was an event of historic proportions in British polities.

No British government in the past 100 years ever has won more than 60 per cent of the votes in a parliamentary general election.

With a voter turnout of 68 per cent in this referendum — only a little less than is normal in parliamentary elections — well over 65 per cent supported Wilson.

The voters apparently accepted the argument of Market supporters that Britain's economic situation is so critical that her best hope of overcoming it is as a member of the world's largest economic group with a market of 250 million people rather than by trying to go it alone in an uncertain world.

The size of the "Yes" vote was particularly stunning because it involved not just parts of the country but virtually the entire United Kingdom.

Wales, most of Scotland and the industrial areas of the English Midlands and North all voted "Yes" by huge majorities.

Seven of his 23 government ministers, a majority of Labor Party members of Parliament, the party's national executive committee, its rank-and-file convention and most of the big labor unions wanted to pull Britain out.

Wilson allowed his anti-Market ministers to campaign for a "No" vote. But he warned that, with the referendum out of the way, they must return to the disciplines of cabinet unity.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Lorenz also warned Friday that continuing unemployment has strained the state Unemployment Insurance Fund. He said the fund is solvent through the end of this year, but an increase in tax receipts to the fund must be legislated to meet the expected $1.5 billion in claims next year.

Employment increased in several job categories in the state in May. EDD said.

The depressed construction industry showed a gain of 12,400 jobs and manufacturing jobs rose by 10,200.

But the agency emphasized that all the employment gains were far short of the normal seasonal increases expected in May, accounting for much of the jump in the adjusted unemployment rate.

Lorenz said the unemployment insurance fund should have a balance at the end of this year of about $520 million, after paying the expected .5 billion in claims. At the start of the year, the balance was $1.53 billion.

In 1976, he said, employer tax receipts are expected to be $910 million, far short of the expected $1.5 billion in claims.

The number of people claiming unemployment benefits, the length of time they draw the checks and the average benefits have all climbed during the current recession.

A second theory being offered was that Ford did not wish to make public unsubstantiated inferences that the late President John F. Kennedy had been a party to CIA planning to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro — either because the evidence was inconclusive or because it would be more politically advantageous to let such inferences arise from the reports later of Congressional investigating committees dominated by Democrats.

Still a third possible explanation being discussed, and specifically denied by Nessen, was that the Congressional investigators might produce hard evidence that would make an inconclusive report from Rockefeller's panel appear to have been a whitewash.

THE decision to issue a White House commission report without reference to the assassination inquiry was not made known until Thursday night, following a public dispute between Rockefeller and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the chairman of the Senate select committee on intelligence activities, over the extent of possible misconduct by the CIA.

Rockefeller told newsmen on Monday that his panel had found violations of law by the agency but that "in comparison to the total effort they are not major."

Compton police Sgt. R.C. Stover said a 22-caliber revolver was found along with the $900 in the suspects' vehicle.

He said one of the gunmen fired several shots, striking the guard at least once in the chest. The bandits then grabbed the satchel before fleeing.

But the bank guard retrieved a gun from the fallen guard's holster and fired at the men as they ran to their waiting car. He said one of the gunmen dropped the satchel as he ran.

The guard's partner, who was waiting outside in an armored truck, apparently unaware of what had happened, Linberg said.

Bell and Johnson were taken into custody in the 800 block of North Rose Avenue, about a mile away.

Linberg said the FBI and Compton police are seeking two more men. He said witnesses described the robbers as black and in their late teens and early 20s.

Compton police Sgt. R.C. Stover said a 22-caliber revolver was found along with the $900 in the suspects' vehicle.

The guard, Donald T. Jones of Los Angeles, was taken to Dominguez Valley Hospital, where he underwent surgery for extensive internal injuries.

Booked on suspicion of armed robbery and attempted murder were Marlon Edward Bell, 18, and Steve Johnson, both of Los Angeles, police said.

Elmer Linberg, FBI special agent in charge of the criminal division, said the robbers entered the savings and loan office about 3:15 p.m., firing several shots into the air.

He said they disarmed a bank security guard and collected a little less than $1,000 from several tellers' cages.

As the suspects were leaving, the Brinks guard, apparently unaware of the robbery entered the bank alone to deliver a satchel of money Linberg said.

paid $40,000 in cash in 1972 as "protection" money for a Washington lawyer who had been successful in landing sales for competitors, including Lockheed and Fairchild Hiller. The money was paid to an intermediary, Northrop consultant Frank DeFrancis, who in turn agreed to hire lawyer John Russell Blanford for $1,000 a month. DeFrancis was quoted as saying "that he, in his judgment, deemed it advisable to employ Blanford for Northrop's protection." Blanford, former chief counsel to the House Armed Services Committee, could not immediately be reached. He has been quoted publicly as saying he considered himself to be employed by DeFrancis, not Northrop.

On Thursday, Northrop admitted it had paid $450,000 intended to bribe two unnamed Saudi Arabian generals during negotiations to sell the Arab nation F5E aircraft, and that it bribed an Iranian tax official with $4,400 and paid $15,000 to an intermediary who purportedly passed it along as a gift to an unnamed Indonesian politician.

The company, in a report by its five independent directors, said however that most of the $30 million in overseas payments which had been questioned by federal investigators were legitimate.

THE Senate subcommittee said that many payments fall into "a gray area of questionable legitimacy.... This includes the payment of agency fees to members of several West European parliaments, former high foreign military officers, and the role of a former high CIA official in attempting to influence the weapons policies of Iran and West Germany."

The subcommittee will hold two days of hearings Monday and Tuesday to go over Northrop's overseas dealings.

SURE to be questioned is Stehlin's role in the intense jockeying for a multibillion-dollar contract to supply jet fighters to four West European nations.

AT THE time of last year's controversy, Northrop was competing with General Dynamics and with French and Swedish firms to supply replacements for the aging F104 fighters of Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands and Belgium.

In September, Stehlin wrote a confidential letter to high French officials saying both the American planes were "indisputably superior to the Mirage F1." The letter soon leaked out and Gaullist politicians called for Stehlin to step down as vice presi-

Norway decides to buy U.S. jets

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Norway decided Friday to buy an American fighter plane in preference to a French one and Belgium is expected to make the final choice in the "arms deal of the century" within 24 hours.

The argument has raged for months in Europe over whether to buy the American General Dynamics F16 or the French Mirage F1, made by Dassault, as a replacement for the aging F104 Starfighters flown by the air forces of Holland, Norway, Denmark and Belgium.

Holland, Denmark and Norway have announced their intention to buy the F16 and the Norwegian Parliament voted in favor of the American plane Friday, approving the purchase of 72 F16s. The parliamentary decision was reached after an hour-long debate on a vote of 100 to 19.

But the three countries have made the final purchase dependent on a similar decision by Belgium.

Belgian Premier Leo Tindemans announced Wednesday the cabinet will make its decision at a meeting this morning and relay it to parliament Tuesday. However, officials said the decision may be made known today.

The package deal involves the purchase by the four nations of 348 new jet fighters for their air forces at a total cost of about $2 billion. The winner also stands to gain another $20 billion in follow-up sales, spare parts, momentum toward worldwide sales and other bonuses over the years.

The Belgian government has been under intense pressure from both American and French representatives. In addition Tindemans faces a possible collapse of his coalition government if he decides to buy American in defiance of his coalition partners, who represent French-speaking Belgians.

After Belgian Defense Minister Paul van den Boeynants returned this week from a visit to Washington to discuss the deal, Tindemans announced that the purchase of a European-made plane was "less and less possible."

Reports from Washington said Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger offered to buy $30 million worth of Belgian machine guns as an incentive for Belgium to buy the F16.

CIA

alleged assassination plots surfaced in March. Neither Nessen nor the commission's spokesman had an explanation for the decision to disband the panel without completing the assassination inquiry rather than to seek a second extension if more time was needed.

Rockefeller said Friday morning that the commission had intended all along to present its findings on the assassination charges in a separate, private report to Ford.

BUT C. Douglas Dillon, the commission's vice chairman, told newsmen two weeks ago that the published findings would contain a section on the charges. Senior intelligence officials were known to have expected, as late as Thursday, that the matter would be covered in the published report.

The discrepancies left unsettled which, if any, of three plausible explanations for the deletion of the material might be correct. Some administration officials suggested privately that the White House had been troubled by the inclusion of classified information in a draft of the commission report and had prevailed on the panel to keep it secret.

A second theory being offered was that Ford did not wish to make public unsubstantiated inferences that the late President John F. Kennedy had been a party to CIA planning to assassinate Cuban Premier Fidel Castro — either because the evidence was inconclusive or because it would be more politically advantageous to let such inferences arise from the reports later of Congressional investigating committees dominated by Democrats.

Canadians confident, but OLYMPIC GAMES ARE IN THE HOLE

"Don't worry, we'll get the job done."

MONTREAL — Mayor Jean Drapeau insists that the stadium and the village for the 1976 Summer Olympic Games will be completed on time.

Leo MacGillivray, who runs the public relations department of the Organizing Committee of the Games, agrees.

Olympic Stadium, June 6, 1975

So does Andre Lacheur, who drives a cement truck at the site of the Games, five miles from downtown Montreal.

"Don't worry," said Lacheur, a father of five, who is one of the 2,300 construction people working around the clock on the stadium, the Olympic village, the velodrome and the swimming stadium, "we'll get it built."

The mayor has maintained all along that the construction of the $100 million Olympic area will be completed on time for the Games, which begin in 13 months and 10 days. He has been adamant despite two costly labor strikes which halted work eight weeks one time and 10 days another.

A visitor to the sites comes city's football team, will play in the stadium in 1976.

If it is completed.

The Olympic Village is half completed, the velodrome three-quarters. It seems certain that the Games will be held in Montreal.

Mayor Drapeau, who has pulled off a few shockers—such as bringing a World's Fair to Montreal, helping the city land a major league baseball team, and beating Los Angeles and Moscow to the 1976 Olympic bid.

Leo MacGillivray, who runs the public relations department of the Organizing Committee of the Games, agrees.

punch by wooing the '76 Games to Canada—has apparently conquered the latest financial crisis.

When the budget was drawn for the Olympics, Drapeau estimated the overall cost at $310 million, and insisted that the Games would be self-financed with revenue from the sale of commemorative stamps and coins, ticket sales and television.

But inflation hit hard, and the original estimate is now doubled.

Undaunted, Drapeau said, "No problem. Everybody play. Everybody pay."

So he came up with another idea—a national lottery.

"I'm sure the mayor thought of the lottery," MacGillivray said. "He's thought of everything else."

Henry Aaron, the 41-year-old patriarch of power who is now drifting gracefully toward retirement with the Milwaukee Brewers, brought 22 years of major league experience and a .200 batting average with him to the plate in the sixth inning and slapped a two-out single to centerfield.

Ryan was then obliged to settle for a two-hit, 6-0, triumph of the Brewers because George Scott also reached him for a single in the eighth inning.

"If you're going to give up a hit you might as well give it up to one of the greatest hitters in the game," Ryan rationalized to a mob of newsmen who jammed in front of his cubicle.

Then The Express turned humorist.

"Now Henry can look back on his career and say 'I was the guy who broke up Nolan Ryan's fifth no-hitter.'"

Aaron ends Ryan's no-hitter in sixth, 6-0

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

Slouched on a stool and attività only in a towel, Nolan Ryan had the look of someone who has just had the burden of the globe removed from his substantial shoulders.

You could practically distinguish the relief oozing from every pore.

Nolan Ryan went out to pitch a no-hitter Friday night—for himself, for the Angels and for the 29,513 patrons who showed up reeking of curiosity to see if he really could do it twice in succession.

Not surprisingly, Ryan very nearly succeeded.

FOR FIVE and two-thirds innings, Ryan had the Big A throng tingling with anticipation before the impossible dream ended in a classic confrontation between a superstar of the moment and one from yesteryear.

Henry Aaron, the 41-year-old patriarch of power who is now drifting gracefully toward retirement with the Milwaukee Brewers, brought 22 years of major league experience and a .200 batting average with him to the plate in the sixth inning and slapped a two-out single to centerfield.

Ryan was then obliged to settle for a two-hit, 6-0, triumph of the Brewers because George Scott also reached him for a single in the eighth inning.

"If you're going to give up a hit you might as well give it up to one of the greatest hitters in the game," Ryan rationalized to a mob of newsmen who jammed in front of his cubicle.

Then The Express turned humorist.

"Now Henry can look back on his career and say 'I was the guy who broke up Nolan Ryan's fifth no-hitter.'"

Laughter all around.

IT WAS exceedingly difficult for Ryan to feel in a jester mood because he described this week as "the worst of my career."

It could also have been his most amazing. First a no-hitter Sunday against Baltimore and now a two-hitter against Milwaukee.

"I've been answering questions from the moment I get up to late at night."

Because of the buildup, the large crowd and the fanfare, Ryan reached the conclusion to try for a no-hitter. To help him prepare, the Angels locked the clubhouse to visitors an hour before the game.

"I really didn't expect to do it when I arrived at the park but I tried for it. I was a little too cautious because of it."

The win was the Dodgers' third in a row, keep-

"I knew a base hit was going to happen...it was just a question of when. It would have been nice if it had happened in the next game."

Unlike the tension of a close (1-0) game that accompanied his gem against Baltimore, Ryan did not have to concern himself with the inevitable outcome after the Angels presented him with four runs in a rowdy first inning, capped by Lee Stanton's three-run triple.

The drama reached frantic proportions in the fifth when second baseman Jerry Remy made the play of the game and, as Ryan phrased it, "the play of the year."

Darrell Porter grounded what appeared to be a solid single to right but the fast-reacting Remy ranged far to his left and made a tumbling, diving stop. Then, squatting awkwardly on the grass in shallow right, Remy made a remarkable throw to first baseman Bruce Bochte to the boisterous delight of the crowd.

With two down in the sixth, Aaron hammered the 3,632nd hit of his career and later revealed

NOLAN RYAN....'burden' removed

Rusty Iron Mike saves Hooton, Dodgers, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA—It

was a matchup of classic proportions.

One of baseball's finest pitchers, Mike Marshall, vs. one of the game's most feared batsmen, Richie Allen.

The game was on the line with the Dodgers holding a precious one-run advantage. But Philadelphia had a man on base with only one out in the ninth and Allen became the potential winning run.

Marshall, the ironman, was making his third appearance since mid-April—and his first since May 9—and he won this particular match, striking out

Allen on four pitches, than fanning Ollie Brown, to preserve a 3-2 victory over the Phillies Friday night before 38,357 fans on a rainy evening at Veterans Stadium.

"I really didn't expect to do it when I arrived at the park but I tried for it. I was a little too cautious because of it."

The win was the Dodgers' third in a row, keeping them a game in front of Cincinnati in the National League West, but more important was the return of Michael Grant Marshall.

"It was great to be out

Dodger of day

MIKE MARSHALL buried three scoreless innings to preserve 3-2 victory over Phillies.

there," Marshall said after his second "save," which preserved Burt Hooton's fourth victory.

"Those six weeks when I wasn't pitching was one of the worst times in my life."

Marshall, who worked an incredible 106 games last season, injured his left side April 19. He tried to return too soon, re-injuring the side May 3 and then, six days later, was totally ineffective in a game at Pittsburgh and gave up nine runs in two innings to earn a spot on the disabled list.

"The return of Marshall is the biggest boost we could have morale-wise

right now," said the Dodgers' pleased manager, Walter Alston. "I know it's a big boost for my morale and his, too."

Marshall said he felt all right, but added, "I've been out on the mound

with worse stuff than I had tonight—but most of the time I've been out

there with a lot more."

He said that although he had faced Allen only a few times he had never had particularly good success against him.

"Let's put it this way,"

Marshall said, smiling.

"The first time my right-fielder got out alive, and another time my second baseman had the good sense to get out of the way of one."

Marshall had taken over from Hooton at the start of the seventh inning, following a 50-minute rain delay.

Marshall walked a batter in the seventh but no one else reached base until Greg Luzinski lined a single to center with one out in the ninth.

Now it was Allen's turn.

Marshall fired two fast balls, both swinging strikes, a ball and then another fast ball that Allen swung at and missed.

He struck out Brown, a pinch hitter, to terminate the festivities.

A triple by Jay Johnstone and a run-scoring fly ball by Luzinski gave the Phils a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning. But Luzinski returned the run when Joe Ferguson and Steve Yeager singled. Yeager's hit eluded Luzinski in left and rolled to the wall for an error. Fergie scored and Yeager came home on a double by Rick Auerbach.

Jim Wynn's second double, to lead off the sixth, and a single by Ron Cey made it 3-1. But Mike Schmidt, the Phillies' hottest hitter, slugged his 11th homer—and fifth in four games—to cut the lead to one run in the bottom of the sixth.

In the first inning Philadelphia missed a chance at a big rally that might have put Hooton away but Ferguson, who had a lot more on the ball at that time than Hooton, saved the day.

The Phils had runners at second and third and only one out when Luzinski drove a high fly to right-centerfield. Ferguson raced for the ball, called off Wynn and gunned down the speedy Dave Cash at the plate with a perfect throw.

Asked if he had ever made a better throw, Ferguson proudly said, "Yes, I have. In the World Series."—By GORDON VERRELL

DODGER DOPE: Bill Russell rejoined the club after the cast removed from his injured leg. He won't be ready to play, however, for another week to 10 days...P.R. Powell, optioned Friday to Albuquerque, will stay with the Dodgers through Sunday, then go to the minor league club on Monday...Ferguson has thrown out two runners on this trip. He nearly nailed Cash at first base in the third inning, racing in to field his ground ball single. He not only foiled Cash with his throw but firsly baseman Steve Garvey as well. Auerbach had two hits, the first since May 12 he's managed a pair in one game...Steve Garvey was held hitless, the third time he's gone two games without a hit...The Phillies have won four games in a row before losing to the Dodgers. The Dodgers are 5-5 on their longest trip. Pitching tonight will be Doug Raab (5-5) and Steve Carlton (14-5). Raab hasn't won since May 10 and has dropped four decisions in a row. Sunday, Don Sutton will shoot for his 11th victory against the Phillies' Jim Lonborg.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Rick Barry said Friday the New York Knicks got what they deserved in the George McGinnis case.

"The Knicks tried to abrogate the very rules they helped draw up as a charter member of the NBA and they just can't break them for their own convenience," said Barry, who led Golden State to the playoff title in a four-game sweep of Washington.

"I think contracts should be honored. I've honored every commitment I ever made, including sitting out a year when a judge ruled against me when I left San Francisco for Oakland of the ABA."

McGinnis obviously knew what he was doing when he agreed to a Knick contract. But his situation is different. George is the player and he's not breaking any rule. In fact, he's assured of at least a half-million dollars, no matter what happens in the case."

CLEVELAND Indians general manager Phil Sestini said that although John (Blue Moon) Odom was claimed by another major league team before the waiver period ended at 2 p.m. Friday, he had no intention of letting Odom go. Nor would he reveal the team that claimed Odom.

Odom, whose salary is reported at $45,000, believes he should get another $8,000 from the Indians because he will lose play-off and World Series money he obtained with Oakland.

BRIEFLY: Running back Rocky Bleier and the physician who treated his wounds during the Vietnam war met unexpectedly recently, their first reunion since Bleier's bleak days in the hospital. The doctor, a native of Thailand, said he still finds it difficult to believe that Bleier, who plays for Pittsburgh, is playing football. "I fell he'd never carry the ball again," said Dr. Alan Laor.

Andy Etchebarren refused to pose for Baltimore's 1975 team picture this week and the disgruntled catcher would just as soon make his absence official. For the past few seasons, the veteran receiver has been shirked his duty in trying to procure some help for the Angels prior to the June 15 trading deadline. "I have 36 different combinations of trades sitting on my desk right now," Dalton said. "I've already felt out some people without much luck but I'll keep trying. You wouldn't believe my phone bill this month." Dalton has cooled on Lou Piniella because the New York Yankee outfielder collapsed this week in Minnesota and had to be returned to Gotham for examination. Piniella was bothered by dizziness earlier in the year and it was diagnosed as an inner ear infection. What would have Friday's crowd been without Nolan Ryan shooting for immortality? About 14,000 according to the sultan of statistics, Ed Munson of the PR department. Even at 5 p.m. there were cars lined up at the State College Blvd. entrance...Former Angel reliever Paul Doyle threw batting practice to his old mates...Doyle is best remembered for having one of the best pickup moves in baseball...He is best remembered for having one of the best pickup moves in baseball...TMR Products of South Gate...Doyle is best remembered for having one of the best pickup moves in baseball...The series continues tonight with Bill Castro (1.0) opposing Frank Tanana (2-4).

How they scored

ANGELS FIRST

Nettles singled to left; Reilly singled to center, hitting the ball into the gap. Nettles took third and Reilly moved to second on the throw. Rivers grounded to third. Reiley was walked intentionally, loading the bases. Chalk walked, forcing home Nettles. Laubau popped to second. Stanton triped to right, scoring Reiley and Chalk. Rodriguez struck out. Four runs, three hits, one left.

ANGELS FOURTH

Stanton singled to left. Rodriguez sacrificed to Smith. Stanton to second. Nettles singled to center, scoring Stanton. Nettles was caught stealing. One run, one hit.

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Floyd Banister struck out 15 batters, two short of the College World Series record, to carry Arizona State to a 5-3 victory over Fullerton State Friday night in the opening game of the NCAA 1975 series.

Texas bested Oklahoma, 4-2, in the second game.

Banister checked Fullerton on three hits until the ninth inning, then shut off a two-run rally to preserve his 15th win against three losses. The favored Sun Devils capitalized on four errors, the most Fullerton has committed in a game this season, to score their runs. Dan Boone received the defeat.

Floyd survives putting woes, leads by 2

Palmer, Trevino, miss cut

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Ray Floyd survived a double bogey and putting woes to shoot a one-under-par 71 and retain his two-stroke lead after the second round of the $250,000 Kemper Open golf tournament Friday.

His 36-hole score was 136, eight-under-par.

The husky 32-year-old Floyd, who hasn't won on the tour since 1969 when he captured three titles, held a two-stroke lead over Dan Sikes, a 44-year-old veteran attempting a comeback after a four-month rest for an ailing right shoulder.

Sikes fired a 67, the day's best round, and slipped into second place at 138 on the strength of some phenomenal long putting. He was one shot in front of Gary Player and Miller Barber, both with second-round 70s; Dick Rhyne, with a 71, and Steve Melnyk, who had a 68.

Prominent casualties included Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Bruce Devlin.

Palmer shot 77-149; Trevino, with nine fives, had 76 for 151; Casper shot his second 75, and Devlin had 76-149.

Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller and Tom Weiskopf, the year's three top money winners, are not competing.

first hour of the long day on the steamy, 7,160-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club course, missed only two greens. But he also missed several putts. He putted 32 times, seven more than he needed in Thursday's first round.

Starting on the back nine, he birdied the 13th hole from 40 feet and wedged up to 10 inches for a birdie on No. 14.

On the 584-yard 15th, Floyd drove into the woods, pitched out and topped a three-wood into the back of a water hazard. He eventually reached the green in five and two-putted from eight feet.

Moving to the front nine, he began by missing birdie putts of 12 and 10 feet. On the No. 4 hole, he blasted from a bunker, only to miss a six-foot putt for par.

low hurdles by one second in 36.2.

Two-time defending State champion Elijah Jefferson of San Diego Crawford and Joel Andrews of West Bakersfield won their 100 heats in 9.4 to equal the meet record.

Poly's misfortune was to be in the same 440 heat as Ells.

A Jackrabbit foursome of Benny and Diego Robinson, Michael Flippin and Michael Washington was nosed out at the tape for third in 41.9 by San Fernando.

The national record was broken and one meet mark equalled on the fast, rubberized asphalt surface in the powerhouse preliminaries.

The national record was a sizzling 13.2 by Dedy Cooper of Ells in Richmond in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Cooper's time was two-tenths under the listed national record, four-tenths better than the previous State best. Mike Roberson of Winter Park, Fla. has also run 13.2 this year.

In addition, Cooper anchored the afternoon's fastest mile relay team in 46.1, did the same thing on a 440 relay team that ran 41.1, and had the fastest qualifying time in the 330 metres.

Compton did more than its share to hold up the Moore League's prestige, however, as its 440 relay team and Jeff Sexton (440) and Lew McGlothlin (220) reached the finals.

Running on a synthetic surface for the first time, the Tarbabes cut a staggering seven-tenths off their previous best and won the first heat in 41.4.

McGlothlin, a member of that team along with Sexton, Eric Hurt and Roosevelt Humphrey, later won his heat of the 220 in 21.1, a time equalled by Norris Jones of Kennedy (Barstow) and Joel Andrews of West Bakersfield.

Poly's misfortune was to be in the same 440 heat as Ells.

A Jackrabbit foursome of Benny and Diego Robinson, Michael Flippin and Michael Washington was nosed out at the tape for third in 41.9 by San Fernando.

Only one Southern Section athlete gained the discus finals. Mayfair junior Rich Johnson was 10th in 162.6. Only the first nine in each field event, excluding the pole vault, advanced to today's finals, which begin at noon.

10 charge for $89,100 at Alamitos

Easy Date heads Derby cast

Easy Date, the richest quarter horse in history, goes in quest of her 17th victory in 19 lifetime starts when she faces a star-studded cast of nine 3-year-olds in the 22nd running of the $89,100 Los Alamitos Derby tonight.

Ruling as the country's champion 2-year-old filly last year when she won the All-American Futurity, Easy Date is expected to be a heavy favorite to become the sixth successive winning filly and extend their unusual record in the 400-yard classic to 10 victories in the last 12 races.

However, the third leg of California's quarter horse triple crown has not been kind to favorites in the past five years with only Charger Bar reaching the winner's circle in 1971 as the public choice. Regardless, Easy Date will be favored to pick up the winner's share of $49,005 and push her lifetime bank account to nearly $650,000.

She comes into the Derby off three consecutive wins in the past month, but surprisingly only the third fastest qualifying time during last week's trials. Deck 'Em (21.72) and Alachic (21.74) reached the finish line quicker than Easy Date's 21.87 clocking.

Another date in winner's circle?

Easy Date, eased up by jockey Donald Knight after winning her heat in Derby trials at Los Alamitos last week, is expected to go off as favorite in tonight's $89,100 Derby. Easy Date bids for his 17th win in 19 starts.

All three will take aim at Pokey Bar's Derby record of 21.60 established in 1962.

Other opponents tonight will be Heza Charger, Duplicate Dream, Silver-town, Howdy Sis, Three Oh's Wild, Jet Spice and Masko Lad.

Heza Charger, one of only two horses to beat

Easy Date, carries the male banner into the Derby and fourth fastest qualifying time, 21.90.

Timeto Thinkrich, the second leading money-winner in quarter horse racing history, broke a six-month drought Friday night when he scored a convincing triumph in the $10,000 Chicago V. Invitational Handicap.

Sent off as the 7-5 favorite, the winner paid $4.80, $3.80 and $2.80. Jet Creek was third.

A crowd of nearly 11,000 established a record for a $5 exacta handle when it wagered $116,445 in the sixth race. The previous exacta handle high was $114,835 on Dec. 14, 1974.

Timeto Thinkrich trailed early leader Pass Over for the first 250 yards before finally taking command and finishing a neck in front of Pass Over at the wire. Timeto Thinkrich covered the 400 yards in 19.89, a stakes record.

In the final prep for the $150,000 invitational Hollywood Gold Cup June 21, Stardust Mel will carry high weight of 125 pounds today in the $50,000-added Bel Air Handicap, which has attracted a field of seven at Hollywood Park.

Fernando Toro will pilot Stardust Mel, which will spot the field from eight to 15 pounds in the mile and one-eighth Bel Air.

Other Bel Air entries and their weights: Plunk, 117; La Zanzara, 116; Fast Spot, 113; Jim, 111, and Village Common, 110.

Allison 'closer' to 3rd Cal NASCAR win

By ALLEN WOLFE
Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Bobby Allison, winner of the last two NASCAR Grand National stock car races held in Southern California, established himself as a solid favorite to extend that streak to three Friday when he wrapped up the pole position for the Turborg 400 Sunday at Riverside International Raceway.

The 37-year-old Hueytown, Ala. resident drove his Roger Penske-prepared AMC Matador to a speed of 109.530 mph around Riverside's 2.62-mile, 8-turn road course. He established a track record for cars equipped with carburetor restrictor plates, although it was off the record of 113.310 mph set by Parnelli Jones in 1970 in the days before NASCAR instituted rules to slow the cars.

Richard Petty, winner of six of the first 13 Winston Cup events this season, was second fastest in the field of 25 first-day qualifiers. "King Richard" and his STP Dodge clocked a speed of 109.530 mph. He was followed by Daytona 500 champion Benny Parsons in a '75 Chevrolet at 109.104 mph and Dave Marcis of Skysland, N.C., in a '74 Dodge at 108.961 mph.

Allison capturing the pole was anything but a surprise. Last November, the $1 million winner in career earnings rebounded from a two-year slump by scoring a dramatic victory in the $125,000 Ontario 500.

Twenty cars qualified during Friday's first round, with another 15 to be added during today's second round between 1 and 4 p.m. The track opens for practice at 9 a.m.

Friday's qualifiers:

1. Bobby Allison (Hueytown, Ala.) '75 AMC Matador 110.530 mph.
2. Richard Petty (Randleman, N.C.) '75 Dodge 109.530 mph.
3. Benny Parsons (Elberton, N.C.) '75 Corvette 109.104 mph.
4. Dave Marcis (Skysland, N.C.) '74 Dodge 108.961 mph.

15. Jim Easley (Van Nuys) '73 Ford 105.571.
16. James Hytton (Gramling, S.C.) '75 Chevrolet 105.472.
17. Walter Ballard (Charlotte, N.C.) '75 Chevrolet 105.470.
18. Ed Nease (Kelso, Wash.) '74 Dodge 105.469.
19. John Kieper (Portland, Ore.) '75 Chevrolet 104.209.
20. Ivan Baldwin (Modesto) '74 Dodge 103.778.

Connors handed first 1975 loss in 'tuneup'

Combined News Services

Jimmy Connors, the world's top tennis star, was soundly defeated by South Africa's Bernie Minton, 7-6, 6-1, in a stunning upset at the Rothmans Grass Court Tennis Tournament at Chichester, England Friday.

Connors, who had defeated four victories in three days at this tuneup for the Wimbledon Championships, had reached the semifinals earlier Friday by eliminating John Barrett of Australia, 6-2, 6-4.

But against Minton, he lost the first set on a tie-breaker and then dropped the second by a wide margin.

The 22-year-old American star took his defeat philosophically.

"I came here for match practice and I've had five matches so it served my purpose," he said. "I have two more weeks to go before beginning defense of my Wimbledon title and at two o'clock two weeks from Monday, I'll be ready. Watch me go then."

Connors, who had not been beaten since Jan. 1, lost only four of 103 matches last year.

Connors was expected to win the tournament easily. He had entered this grass court test so that he could get pre-Wimbledon practice on that surface, passing up the clay court French Championships.

The victory moved Minton into today's final against Syd Ball, a 25-year-old Australian.

In the women's final, Terry Holliday, a 19-year from San Diego, will face Greer Stevens of South Africa.

Miss Holliday advanced by defeating another American, Patti Hogan of La Jolla, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Giles led by two holes with a two-under-par 34 after nine holes, and there was little warning of the trouble to come. But on the 17th, he pounded the green with his clubs in frustration after missing a chance to wrap up the match.

Giles, the U.S. Amateur champion in 1972, had less than an hour's rest before teeing up against Siderowf, a stockbroker from Westport, Conn.

In the morning, the Americans fought off quarter-final challenges with 1-up victories. Giles, trailing until the 15th hole, finally toppled 19-year-old Steve Martin of Scotland. Siderowf, who won this title two years ago, held off a late charge by John Grace of Fort Worth, Tex., and beat him with a par on the 18th.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

One annual that sometimes grows through winter, that is, if it escapes the frost, is vinca-periwinkle, which has glossy green leaves and blooms through summer and fall. The inch-size flowers of bluish pink with a red eye, or bright rose, or white with a rosy eye, are comparatively free of disease and insects. The plants grow to two feet, while the dwarf form to about 8-10 inches. The colors are similar.

Annuals as well as some perennials add lots of summer color in either a sun or a shade garden. Gardener can achieve a showier bed by setting out the various kind of plants but keeping each type in their own groups ... that's if the garden space is large enough.

THE TALLER groups, such as large-flowering zinnias are planted at the back of a sunny garden, asters in front of them, and petunias at the very front section of such a garden.

There are a number of other annuals, too, that can be used thusly, such as giant hybrid marigolds which, grow two-to-three-feet high with three-to-five-inch blossoms in yellow, orange, and deep orange.

Another group of marigolds are the semi-dwarfs with carnation-like flowers of clear yellow, golden orange and deep orange. They're delightful for mass plantings and they withstand wind well.

Floss flower-agastache, provide fluffy blossoms in dense heads of blue-lavender blossoms, growing in front flower borders, edgings, rock gardens, and small flower beds.

Coleus, impatiens, and begonias provide lots of summer color in a shady garden. The color of the leaves becomes more intense if planted where they get several hours of sunlight.

WHILE considering planting flowers, let's not forget that garden fresh vegetables taste better and no doubt retain more vitamin value. Gardener doesn't have to have a large garden area for those plants. Even 100-square-foot area would be a good start.

The soil should be watered down to at least eight inches before it is dug over, or an organic amendment material added if the soil has never been improved.

Two to four inches of premoistened peat moss, or leaf mold, or fine ground mushroom compost, or fine bark, or planter mix should be spread over the top of the soil.

Heavy clay soil should have a powder form or a slightly coarser material spread over the amendment. Most nurseryman will recommend a material that contains sulphur and calcium to combat the heavy soil. All the materials should be dug a shovel depth into the soil, then redug to get a better mixture of the materials. Soil then is watered well. A few days later the area should be raked, stones removed planting is ready for sowing of seeds or setting out of plants.

VEGETABLE seeds that can be sown this time of the year are beans, back-eyed peas, chard, herbs, sweet corn, mustard greens, onions, okra, spinach, radish, summer squash and tomatoes. Nurseries have vegetable plants in pots and plant bands, available and ready to set out. Those plants will be at least three weeks or more ahead of seed-sown vegetables.

Gardener would be wise to periodically use a vegetable-tomato dust and lightly dust the plants and the soil around them. The dust contains insecticide for chewing and sucking insects as well as a fungicide.

UFW vows to push boycott

SACRAMENTO (AP) — United Farm Workers leaders said Friday they would intensify their wine, grape and lettuce boycotts as major California lettuce growers negotiated new Teamster contracts.

But plans for a threatened four-state agricultural strike by the Teamsters Union on July 15 apparently have been canceled.

Those are among the first reactions to enactment of Gov. Brown's landmark secret ballot farm labor bill.

Those developments are a continuation — at least temporarily — of the kind of activities which have created tension and conflict in California agriculture for the past decade.

But leaders of most factions say their current actions are only maneuvers in preparation for Aug. 28, the date the Democratic governor's new Agricultural Labor Relations Act takes effect.

"By the first of September everything may be different, but we don't know how different, and in what way," said Les Hubbard, spokesman for the Western Growers Association, whose members produce 85 per cent of California's vast lettuce crop.

The measure, signed into law Thursday, marks the first time that major growers, Cesar Chavez' UFW and the Teamsters have ever reached agreement on rules for farm labor organizing.

But it doesn't resolve their disputes. It only moves them into a new and potentially more orderly arena — that of state-supervised secret ballot organizing elections and state guidelines to regulate strikes and unfair labor practices.

The new law requires secret elections among workers before any union will be certified to represent workers. It allows workers to challenge an existing contract, which will be voided if the union negotiating that contract loses a state-supervised election.

Movie makers charge FBI harassment, defend project

By JERRY BUCK

Associated Press

Three movie makers filming a documentary on the Weather Underground said Friday they would refuse to cooperate with a federal grand jury investigating the terrorist organiza-

Vowing their determination to complete the film, described as a "dialogue" with the fugitive group, they said government harassment had forced them to stop work.

TWO OF them, Emile de Antonio and Mary Lampson, said they were prepared to go to jail if necessary in their refusal to cooperate. The third, Oscar-winning cinematographer Haskell Wexler, said, "It serves no good purpose now to say what I would do."

The Underground is a radical organization which has claimed credit for terrorist bombings across the country.

The U.S. attorney's office withdrew subpoenas Thursday against the three filmmakers and Wexler's son, Jeff.

But Michael Kennedy, a San Francisco attorney representing Wexler, said the subpoenas "still hang over their head."

KENNEDY said he was preparing a suit to be filed at the end of next week or the following week to "stop the FBI or anyone else from harassing or interfering with this film. The government must stop its surveillance."

They appeared at a packed news conference at the Los Angeles Press Club, where their right to make the documentary was supported by leading filmmakers, including Robert Wise, president of the Directors Guild of America, and Bert Schneider, coproducer of the Academy Award-winning documentary on Vietnam, "Hearts and Minds."

"For the past three weeks the FBI has tailed me, tapped my phones, photographed me, my house, my cars and spied from a hillside with binoculars," said Wexler, who won an Academy Award for cinematography in 1967 for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf."

"ALTHOUGH this is not a new experience I asked my lawyer to contact the FBI to find out what was going on. The answer came back in the form of a subpoena."

De Antonio said, "When the subpoenas were served we were ready for editing. The subpoenas have stopped that. Withdrawing subpoenas doesn't make the film any more possible right now. We're ready to begin editing right now. I am confident we would be placed under surveillance and the film seized."

"I believe we have a right to make this film. The film now lies still until we obtain judicial recognition of that right."

SAYING "no one is going to tell me I have to be an informer," De Antonio said he would give the grand jury only his name. He said he would refuse to cooperate until "a federal court proves to me that the Constitution is alive and well."

De Antonio said the Weather Underground book "Prairie Fire" had caused him to arrange a meeting with the fugitives and begin the filming.

Man falls afowl of city law

VISTA (UPI) — A jury may have to decide whether the crowing of a cock is an unreasonable noise, but more than 2,000 Rooster Boosters say it is not.

Richard Ferguson, who will pay if the Rooster Boosters are wrong, faces trial July 7 on a disturbing peace charge. Neighbors complained that his roosters crowed and his peacocks chattered.

"I'm a victim of 'fowl' play," Ferguson said.

"I can't understand why there is so much cackle about the complaint since I live in a zone which permits shoulder-to-shoulder horses, 25 fowl and a number of other animals."

His supporters formed a group called the Rooster Boosters and sent petitions with more than 2,000 signatures in defense of the rooster's right to crow to Dist. Atty. Ed Miller.

Ferguson said when the complaint was filed he and his family kept two roosters, six hens, a peacock, a peahen, two horses, a pony, two dogs and two cats at their rural residence.

But Mrs. Ferguson said this week one rooster disappeared and the peacock was found dead "under mysterious circumstances."

Ferguson said his legal fees total $400. He said in spite of the expense he "can't quit now and must see this thing through for the benefit of others who own animals and fowl in areas permitted by law."

The section under which he was accused prohibits "unreasonable noises emitted by animals or fowl wherever they may be located," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Carleton.

The Rooster Boosters disagree. Their petition reads: "I believe that a rooster has the right to crow in all areas in San Diego County where zoning laws permit the animals to exist."

Ex-sheriff placed on probation

FRESNO (AP) — Former Sheriff Guy Langley was placed on probation Friday for a campaign fund violation with a warning he would have been jailed "had the source of these funds been sinister."

However, Superior Court Judge Leonard I. Meyers suspended six-month jail sentences in placing Langley and his campaign manager, Ed Cutler Jr., on probation for two years each.

The probation office had recommended that each spend five days in jail for "laundering" 1974 campaign funds.

Judge predicts SLA jury verdict today

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Jury deliberation dragged on for an eighth day Friday in the murder trial of two Symbionese Liberation Army members, but the judge said he was confident of a verdict by today.

"I expect a verdict no later than tomorrow," Superior Court Judge Elvin Sheehy told reporters outside the courtroom. Earlier in the week, he had predicted a verdict by Friday.

Awowed SLA members Joseph Remiro and Russell Little are accused of killing Marcus Foster, Oakland's superintendent of schools, and trying to kill his top aide, Robert Blackburn.

Foster was killed with cyanide-tipped bullets, and Blackburn was seriously wounded in the Oakland schools parking lot Nov. 6, 1973.

There was no direct testimony that either Little or Remiro was at the death scene. But, if the jury finds that they took part in a murder conspira-

TeleVues*'Sixty Minutes' will return to prime time for the summerBy BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

"Sixty Minutes," award-winning CBS News "television magazine" series, once again will return to prime time TV for the summer season.

Starting Sunday, July 6, the series will begin airing from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. on Channel 2 and will continue in that time period until September. For the rest of the year, the program is telecast from 6 to 7 p.m. Sundays.

Segments being prepared for showing this summer include a retrospective look at the tumultuous life of the late Judy Garland; a profile of Beverly Sills, America's opera superstar; a visit with controversial American author Gore Vidal; and an examination of the life and literary style of Henry Miller.

Other segments coming up will examine ripoffs in welfare, take a look at the top secret weapon that helped the allies win World War II, present the story of a juvenile offender who was gang-raped in prison, and report on "mind control" techniques in the baseball dugout of the Chicago White Sox.

Mike Wallace and Morley Safer, CBS News correspondents, are co-editors of "60 Minutes." The program's "Point-Counterpoint," with Shana Alexander and James J. Kilpatrick, and "Letters to '60 Minutes'" will also continue in the summer editions.

"POLICE DOG," a one-hour special focusing on the training of dogs as crimefighters, airs at 8 tonight on Channel 5. Originally scheduled for an earlier date, it was preempted by a hockey playoff game.

Joseph Cotten narrates the special, which was filmed in San Francisco, Washington, D.C., and Minneapolis. It shows how members of the K-9 corps aid policemen in sniffing out contraband and bombs and in catching criminals.

Another 60-minute documentary special, "Galapagos," follows "Police Dog" on Channel 5 at 9.

The Galapagos Islands, off the coast of Ecuador, were first made famous by naturalist Charles Darwin's studies of their strange, almost prehistoric, forms of life in the 19th century.

August gas rate hike due

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Gas rates for the average Long Beach residential customer will go up 5.3 per cent on billings mailed in early August, but will drop back to a three per cent hike over present rates for subsequent billings.

The increase is to meet a "substantial" boost of 5.3 cents per thousand cubic feet which Long Beach Gas Department must pay to Southern California Gas Co. for gas purchases after June 16. The hike in cost for the gas department was ordered by the State Public Utilities Commission.

Under existing city ordinances, the Gas Department is directed to recommend an increase in rates whenever the price of gas purchased by the city increases by more than one-fourth cent per thousand cubic feet.

Edward C. Wright, general manager of the Gas Department, said the new price approved by the PUC will cost the department about $1 million annually. Because the city ordinance specifies a 60-day delay before the new rates can be put into effect, the department will lose about $86,000, Wright said.

To offset this loss, the first bills after the 60-day waiting period, or about the first week in August, will be up 9.7 cents per thousand cubic feet, or a 5.3-per cent hike to the average residential customer. On subsequent billings, the increase will be cut back to 5.4 cents per thousand cubic feet over the present rate, Wright said.

City Manager John R. Mansell said his office is now reviewing a preliminary report from the Gas Department, compiled at City Council instructions, on possible changes in rate schedules to provide that customers who use less gas pay lower unit prices.

Under the present system, the more gas a customer uses, the lower the rate is per thousand cubic feet. Mansell pointed out that this does not encourage conservation of "the steadily diminishing gas supplies."

The Gas Department is now making computer runs and analyzing data on current and previous gas sales for possible revision of rate schedules, he said.

Budget hearings over; now it's trim time

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

Supervisors Friday closed public hearings on the county's proposed $2.9 billion 1975-76 budget after being flooded with requests by community groups for millions of dollars in grants and extra funding by department heads totaling more than $52 million.

The public hearings began May 30, and included a night session Thursday.

About 150 community group representatives, civic group spokesmen, union leaders, taxpayer groups and department heads, made their various pitches.

While a small percentage urged supervisors to hold the line on taxes, the overwhelming majority of speakers sought more county funds.

Supervisors already faced the prospect of a 40-cent increase in the tax rate when they begin their deliberations Monday. And the request for millions more dollars not even included in the budget will make the task of trimming the spending package much harder.

Board chairman James Hayes has called a press conference for 8:30 a.m. Monday to outline what he says will be "sweeping recommendations designed to halt a major increase" in next year's tax rate.

And other supervisors are expected to come up with ideas of their own—the most likely being moves to freeze new hiring.

One of those appearing before the board Friday was Communications Director Ed Messinger who asked for additional staff to work out a cost allocation program so that each county department would be responsible for its own telephone bills.

Messinger said he expects the county's phone bill to be $18 million and noted he presently has to absorb that figure in his budget. By east allocating to each department, he said, individual department heads would become more responsible.

sive to the need to cut telephone costs.

Under questioning, Messinger said he believed the county could save at least $1 million a year if employees' personal calls could be stopped. He said 234,100 phone calls are made each year to and from county government offices.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said it may be necessary to put in more pay phones in county buildings to encourage employees to make their personal calls from public booths.

Included in the $52 million extra money being sought by departments was $10.1 million recommended by task forces set up to review complaints of interns and residents at three major county teaching hospitals.

The task forces were set up after young doctors at County-USC Medical Center and Harbor General Hospital threatened to strike, and those at Martin Luther King General Hospital did in fact walk out in protest over what they called poor patient care.

Supervisors' deliberations are expected to continue through Friday by which time Hayes said he hopes to adopt the spending package.

Garden Grove girl seeking teen-age title

At 14, Pamela Kay Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toby E. Owens of Garden Grove, is a model hoping to be California's top teenager.

She is a finalist in a statewide competition which will climax June 29, the third day of competition at the Sheraton-Universal Hotel, Hollywood. The 1975 Miss California Teen-Ager will be chosen on that day.

Miss Owens, whose tastes run to motocycling as well as modeling, also likes to roller skate. And her main philanthropy is working with the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

The reigning Miss California Teen-Ager is Robin Anna Moore of Bellflower.

The younger teen-agers.

Ms. Froke said she had found one positive aspect to the tight job market. "Many employers are waiting until late June before making their final decision," she commented.

The city of Long Beach, using $734,000 in federal funds, will place 1,400 youngsters in summer jobs with local nonprofit, public agencies.

Employers are telling us that they've furloughed regular employees so they can't justify hiring summer help," said Ms. Noreen Froke, Long Beach area youth employment coordinator for the State Employment Development Department.

Ms. Bobbie Mays, a manpower analyst, said the city could place 5,000 disadvantaged youngsters easily.

She stressed that the program

Rather than regularly scheduled salary raises, Orange County's administrative management personnel will get bonuses on basis of performance beginning next fiscal year.

Their basic pay schedule will be retained as a "floor" but their advancement on the pay scale will be on their own initiatives as management people.

Thus, the Orange County Board of Supervisors thinks, the inducement for higher pay will result in higher "performance" on the job.

"compensation plan."

He said it permits greater flexibility in utilizing management personnel, and while it reduces pay differentials, it does allow for advances by reason of motivation to earn more by innovative management job performance.

Inauguration of the plan as of July 4, the first pay period of the new fiscal year starting July 1, will follow a professional study of pay schedules to be done by Arthur Young and Co., auditors and management advisers. The study will include recommended pay levels for all management jobs, and suggest assignments.

"We've got all kinds of applicants," said Mrs. Dorothy Uhtof of the Bellflower EDD office. "all we need are some good jobs."

"I had several big employers last year — now they say that they've laid off adult workers with families. It's really bad," she said.

The Norwalk EDD office, which is also headquarters for Bellflower, Artesia, Cerritos, Downey and La Mirada, reported that well over 3,000 summer job applications have been filled out.

"It's going to be a rough summer, job vacancies are down 50 percent from last year," said Tony Mazur, an employment service supervisor.

The situation at the Compton EDD office, which also serves Paramount and Lynwood, was "bleak," according to Mrs. Edith Miller, a placement supervisor.

"We have 5,000 applicants and I doubt if we will be able to place 900," she said. Most of the jobs will be with federally funded projects.

"The private sector has moved out. We mailed out 500 letters to employers and got one response," she related. "There are lots of applicants and no jobs."

An increasing rivalry between the state and the cities for federal job funds has also hurt the summer job market by distracting the agencies.

Mazur said that this is the first year that the cities have controlled the bulk of the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act Funds.

"The local summer manpower programs better get off the dime," he warned. "We haven't heard much about what direction they're going to take and school gets out in a week."

"EDD has become a competitor — now we're vying for services from the people with the purse strings," he added.

The CETA money is providing the summer job field with some hope said Ms. Froke from Long Beach. "Otherwise, there would be very few job opportunities for teenagers," she said.

The part-time job market should begin to open up at the end of the summer, Mazur said.

"We're already in the turnaround," he elaborated, "the pressure is easing in our reception areas. The lines no longer run from the counter to the wall."

However, he added, "How fast will the recovery be? Your guess is as good as mine."

Summer job picture bleak for teen-agers

By ROBERT GORE

Southland youths are going to find their sunny summer clouded by the tightest part-time job market in a decade, according to an Independent Press-Telegram spot check of 11 cities.

Private business has drastically trimmed work forces, say employment officials.

In most areas, federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act funds will provide the bulk of summer job openings. But even this lone bright spot is darkened by stiff competition for the U.S. money between the state and the cities, the officials say.

"Employers are telling us that they've furloughed regular employees so they can't justify hiring summer help," said Ms. Noreen Froke, Long Beach area youth employment coordinator for the State Employment Development Department.

God finds Dr. Billy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Billy Graham was preaching anticommunism when William Randolph Hearst took a liking to the unknown young evangelist and helped to promote him. He's still preaching against Communism, but Graham now sees the deterioration of moral values as a greater evil. He sounds downright gloomy as he talks of the state of the world.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

MONTREAT, N.C. — Billy Frank, as he was called then, was a shy kid. Mostly interested in fast cars and pretty girls. Billy Frank didn't cotton much to religion then. He was far more interested in baseball and aspired to play professionally, although he wasn't nearly good enough.

But the gangly elder son of a dairy farmer was talked into dropping by a good old-fashioned revival tent pitched on the red clay dirt of North Carolina.

There, he found God. Or as the Rev. Dr. Billy Graham puts it, God found him.

SINCE THEN, God — and the world — has never lost sight of Billy Graham, who is now well into his third decade as a revivalist. Recently he had a private chat with President Ford, making Ford the sixth president of the United States to confer with Graham.

The Queen of England has poured tea for him, the Republicans have tried to draft him as a presidential candidate (he's a registered Democrat), and he's probably filled more stadiums and auditoriums than any other man in history. Fifty million souls have heard him preach at 225 crusades in 55 countries.

Burt Lancaster playing "Elmer Gantry" pales before the electric presence that is Billy Graham, evangelist extraordinaire. The Rev. Dr. Graham — he'd rather be called Mr. Graham or just plain Billy — looks like Hollywood's version of God. Or, at the very least, Michael the Archangel.

HIS EYES are very piercing and very blue, his nose is long and pointing, one feels, directly at sin, and his hair wavy and leonine. His smile is mobile and reassuring and the strong white teeth good enough to sell any kind of toothpaste.

Appearing taller than his measured 6-foot-2, Graham moves with an almost doublejointed lithe grace. Even in private conversation, he gestures frequently with his magnificently artistic and enormous hands.

Presidents and politicians have come and gone, public mores have shifted and changed, but Billy Graham and his unvarnished brand of the Bible have survived for a quarter of a century.

Even Graham's close association with President Nixon — and his long-held conviction that Nixon was innocent in the Watergate affair — did not seem to damage Graham's prestige.

BUT GRAHAM, 56, maintains that he was probably closer to Lyndon Johnson than to any other president.

Graham is keenly interested in the powerful people he meets and what they have to say. You don't need to talk with him very long before he comes out with a recent thought of Henry Kissinger or an opinion of Alexander Solzhenitsyn, or maybe something the Queen of England had to say.

It does not come out like name dropping. Graham, the teacher as well as the salesman, wants to share a thought that impressed him.

"We're very fortunate that all five of our children have followed Christ," says Graham.

The elder of the two sons, William Franklin Jr., got off to a rocky start.

"He was into everything you can think of, even having the police chief chasing him," says Graham. "I never got after him. Love would always come first. During this time, he would always hug and kiss me when he saw me. When it was over, there was nothing to reestablish."

PIERCING BLUE EYES, leonine hair and frequent gestures characterize electric presence of the Rev. Dr. William Franklin ("Billy") Graham, 20th Century American evangelist extraordinaire, as photographed at home in Montreat, N.C.

AT HIS wedding, the namesake of the famed preacher had a surprise for his parents. He announced that he and his wife were dedicating their lives to Christ. Billy Jr. is now in Bible school in Denver.

Already Graham's son is a powerful preacher. He looks like his father and Graham says modestly: "I've been told he sounds very much like me."

One daughter is married to a Raleigh, N.C., dentist who is active in local politics; another is married to a Philadelphia TV producer, and the third is married to a wealthy Swiss, a childhood friend who is now getting his Ph.D. in psychology.

They're talking about going to work with heroine addicts on the streets of Paris.

Graham's wife was born in China, the daughter of missionaries. Graham says she knows the Bible far better than he does.

GRAHAM FIRMLY believes that God chooses his servants and that Divine Providence put him where he is today. He also got a little help from the public relations providence of William Randolph Hearst.

Hearst took a liking to the unknown young evangelist and sent down the order: "Puff Graham."

Graham, the patriot who views the Constitution as the second greatest document in the world, sees communism as a menace to the world.

"They have a gigantic plan for the world and they may win temporarily," he says. "But Christ will win in the end."

Graham feels the deterioration of moral values is a greater evil than communism.

"WE WILL BURY ourselves. It's our own affluence that will be our destruction."

Graham's basic fundamentalism, the belief that each man must be redeemed through Christ, has remained unchanged over the years. He sounds downright gloomy as he talks of the state of the world — the coming of Armageddon, the end of history, the second coming of terrorist organizations that could be building the Bomb, and the quagmire America has found herself in since the assassination of President Kennedy.

This recently prompted Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington to ask if Graham considered himself an optimist or a pessimist.

"I told him I was an optimist because I had read the last page of the Bible."

Graham is certain he will go to heaven and actually looks forward to Judgment Day. "That gives me a great serenity and peace," he said. "I have the Holy Spirit living with in . . ."

LETTERS — At Navy housingGod does heal

Religion Editor,

Where people go wrong is to believe that God is going to heal through a particular religious person or group ... Or that such healings are 'fakery' today; When in reality God has already spoken on how and under what circumstances He is pleased to heal. Anything God did 2000 years ago God can do today. Why? Because He is God! Whoever says that God can't do something today must show cause in Scripture for it and there is none — it is an argument from silence. God heals — But He always heals on one condition; if we ask according to His Will. He hears us, and if He hears us we have the petition we desired of Him. God heals — but He doesn't heal on our terms, He heals on His terms. One can't schedule the Holy Spirit to perform a healing at a revival meeting; a person can have all the faith in the world, but if the Lord does not want that person to be healed — they are not going to be.

Not all 'faith healings' are from God ... If something happens in a healing it does not mean that God did it automatically. This is not the case at all since there are different kinds of healings: psychosomatic, hypnotic, and satanic. There is Divine healing in which God specifically intervenes. If a healing is not bringing people to Jesus and to redemption; If Jesus is not honored and glorified in the healing — it is not from God since it is bringing them away from the cross.

Jesus does the best healing, not a particular group or person, and Jesus has already paid the price in full ... it doesn't cost anything. Jesus healed me from my sins, and in Rev. 3:20 He makes the claim that He is willing to perform that ultimate healing in anybody that invites Him into their lives as Savior and Lord.

Jerry Caine
Long BeachNo theocracy

Religion Editor:

In response to your appeal for opinions about sex and love, I would like to point out that the United States of America is not a theocracy, that there is a tradition of the separation of Church and State. May I remind you that the Pilgrim Fathers fled to the New World because they were persecuted by men who usurped the prerogative of God to look into a person's heart to judge and punish sins.

I am sure you are aware that a sin and a crime may not necessarily be the same thing, that sex and love could be separated. Sex is a biological and physiological process whereas love is an emotional or a spiritual experience which may or may not involve sex.

To legislate morality is ineffective. Let's leave to God the judgement, punishment or forgiveness of sins in this world or the hereafter. Human justice can only attempt to balance the protection of free choice against the protection of privacy if and when they conflict. It is more effective to encourage a greater degree of consistency of precept and example from those whom youths are likely to emulate.

By 1936, the little church faced bankruptcy. But that was the year Rev. Milton G. Gabrielson, he who would serve as Bay Shore's minister for 38 years, arrived here. Under his leadership it weathered the economic storms of the day and went on to develop into today's church.

Mr. Gabrielson retired to an emeritus status on July 1, 1973, and suffered a fatal heart attack last June 27.

INDEPENDENT PRESS TELEGRAM*RELIGION*Shore church to rededicate

Beginning its second half-century of Christian service Sunday morning will be Bay Shore Community Church, 5100 The Toledo, incorporated "way down on the Shore" in June 1925.

Leading the congregation in a 9:30 a.m. service of rededication then will be Rev. Kenneth A. Coates, who was called there as minister on March 18. Special music will be provided by the Chancel Choir, and new officers installed.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, Mr. Coates is to install formally as permanent minister under auspices of the Orange County Association of the United Church of Christ. All neighbors and friends are invited to join in these milestone marking events.

When the church was incorporated a half-century past, its oldtimers recall, Belmont Shore was a subdivision of many vacant lots, few buildings, no shops and an unpaved main street. Through the assistance of Warren A.

McGrath of the subdividing firm of Selover & McGrath, the church's first services — for a congregation of 17 — were held in a real estate office alongside Alamitos Bay. This office later became the Belmont Shore branch of the Long Beach Public Library.

Ground was broken Dec. 6, 1925, for the nucleus of what would later become a $1-million-plus facility. But meanwhile the coming Great Depression years would leave their mark.

Chapel struggles on

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

Staff Writer

When Presbyterian minister Ward D. McCabe accepted a call 18 years ago to serve the Westside's inter-denominational Galilee Navy Family Chapel, he didn't believe the job would last.

Hostilities in Korea had been wound down by that July of 1957. The Navy's ranks were diminishing and prospects for a chapel — and chaplain — serving military families living here, was to have a total 12,000 children circulating in its classes then.

Such recognized groups as Girl and Boy Scouts, Navy Wives clubs and a host of other worthwhile organizations headquartered there.

Attendance held up into 1970. By 1973, however, it fell to about 100 "regular" families. Today a faithful 70, including several sets of military retirees, regularly return. Sunday School classes hold a reasonable number of kids, while the big problem, according to McCabe, is in finding enough trained adult teachers.

Similar fears had been voiced even earlier, in the aftermath of World War II, of course.

Though the years, however, Navy Chapel has survived its several vicissitudes — down to and including the recent massive transfer of Navy people out of Long Beach. Somehow it survives, a deceptively simple statement of fact that might well do for the chapel's motto.

And burly, pipe smoking Chaplain McCabe still is there, ministering in his bluff, non-sectarian style to an active, if diminished, flock representing many of the world's races, creeds and colors.

boiling up furiously, some 240 additional Navy families were housed in the neighborhood. The Sunday School, meeting in rooms laboriously finished by members and the chaplain shortly after his arrival here, was to have a total 12,000 children circulating in its classes then.
